Hermes are delighted to announce that Celebi Cargo Frankfurt are the latest German cargo handler to upgrade to the latest version of the Hermes air cargo management system. Hermes IT and cargo experts were on hand during the successful switchover with both Celebi stations at FRA upgraded overnight and back to "business as usual" by early the next morning.

Yuval Baruch, CEO Hermes said, "We are very pleased that such an important air cargo market like Germany has reacted so positively to a strategic company goal to upgrade all customers to the latest version of Hermes. The Perishable Center Frankfurt (PCF) will also join them when they go live with Hermes later this year."

Like it's fellow German cargo handlers, LUG Air Cargo Handling GmbH, Fraport Cargo Services (FCS), Hahn Cargo Services (HCS) and VG Cargo, Celebi now has access to the newest and most functionally rich version of HERMES available.

Recent enhancements include improvements to the DGR module, Flight Plan, Warehouse RIDES logic, Customs Form Design, Storage Calculation Options and a more modular IT design. Being on the latest HERMES version gives our customers more scope to amend their system quickly to
